House Speaker John Boehner, R-Ohio, on Wednesday invited Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu to address the U.S. Congress next week about the threat posed by Islamic extremism and the negotiations over the Iranian nuclear program.

Senator Lindsay Graham

War is a “terrible thing,” said Sen. Lindsay Graham, Republican from South Carolina, but “sometimes it is better to go to war than to allow the Holocaust to develop a second time.”

Graham then describes the war Americans should fight: “If military force is ever employed, it should be done in a decisive fashion. The Iranian government's ability to wage conventional war against its neighbors and our troops in the region should not exist.

They should not have one plane that can fly or one ship that can float.”

Senator Graham: “if we are going to start this war, prudence dictates that we destroy Iran's ability to fight back. At a minimum, we would have to use airstrikes and cruise missiles to hit a range of targets”

The veteran senator says the US should not be satisfied with stopping Iran's nuclear program but should also destroy its military capabilities and deliver a major blow to the Islamic Revolution Guards Corps.

Influential Republican Senator Lindsey Graham of South Carolina, known for his radical militaristic views and support for the Israeli regime said, “My view of military force would be not to just neutralize their nuclear program, which are probably dispersed and hardened, but to sink their navy.”

Senator Graham is supported in these judgments by Senators Joe Lieberman, Connecticut, Saxby Chambliss Republican of Georgia, and John McCain, Republican of Arizona.
