Treaty of Versailles

June 28, 1919

The Treaty of Versailles was one of the peace treaties at the end of World War I. It ended the State of War between Germany and the Allied Powers. It was signed on 28 June 1919. The other Central Powers on the German side of World War I were dealt with in separate treaties. Although the armistice, signed on 11 November 1918, ended the actual fighting, it took six months of negotiations at the Paris Peace Conference to conclude the Peace Treaty. The Treaty was registered by the Secretariat of the League of Nations on 21 October 1919.

MASSACRE IN PARIS

On the evening of 13 November 2015, a series of coordinated terrorist attacks occurred in Paris, the capital of France, and its northern suburb, Saint-Denis. Beginning at 21:20 CET, three suicide bombers struck near the Stade de France in Saint-Denis, followed by suicide bombings and mass shootings at cafés, restaurants, and a concert hall in Paris.

The attackers killed 130 people, including 89 at the Bataclan theatre, where they took hostages before engaging in a stand-off with police. There were 368 people who were wounded,<sup>180–99</sup> seriously. Seven of the attackers also died, while authorities continued to search for accomplices. The attacks were the deadliest on France since World War II, and the deadliest in the European Union since the Madrid train bombings in 2004. France had been on high alert since the January 2015 attacks in Paris that killed 17 people, including civilians and police officers.

The Islamic State of Iraq and the Levant (ISIL) claimed responsibility for the attacks saying that it was in retaliation for the French airstrikes on ISIL targets in Syria and Iraq. The President of France, François Hollande, said that the attacks were an act of war by ISIL planned in Syria, organized in Belgium, and perpetrated with French complicity

WAR AGAINST TERRORISM BEGINS

New York City

September 11 2011

An ever increasing tempo of State Sponsored War on Terrorism is a modern day problem of immense proportions that has a profound social and cultural effect in every corner of our planet. Recent years have become a labyrinth of fire and brimstone suffering for those unlucky enough to stand in the path of the military fireworks of predatory nation's intention on the fulfillment of their programs of domination in order to establish new political, social and economic arrangements for the Nations of the world.

War is an act of force by a state that is intended to compel a declared enemy to obey the will of that society. The purpose is to bring into submission the opponent and to render the opponent incapable of further resistance by destroying its capability and will to bear arms in defense of its own sovereignty. War is a continuation of politics carried to the extremes of violent and destructive means as an instrument of policy

THE WAR ON TERRORISM HAS BECOME A WAR ON THE RELIGIONS OF THE WORLD

This sanctimonious trio of Governments is historically guilty of killing men, women, and children and destroying their homes, schools, and cities for their own political goals of occupation and control. They are perpetrators of an endless series of illegal acts of Criminal Terrorism.

THE TWIN WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION MEDIA AND MONEY

Enough has been said and printed about the subject of Weapons of Mass Destruction in the past twenty years to last a lifetime. This four word phrase is now world famous and synonymous with the employment of nuclear and chemical instruments of warfare. The term itself has become a social and political weapon in and of its own self - a handy tool for speech writers and press conferences. It is designed to intimidate and warn “rogue” nations of the world that are proving to be nations and regions of “concern” for the new International League of Power Nations formed after 1945. These weapons are now seen as the ultimate “Sword Of Damocles” in today’s political affairs of modern man. One slight “miscue” and the ultimate tragedy begins or ends as the case may be. Meanwhile, while this highly dangerous present day “weapons of mass destruction” political opera plays itself out towards its dramatic ending, an entire unnoticed obscure world of other programs of weapons of mass destruction works its way into our own private lives and homes via the cable wire which now penetrates the walls of our only sanctuary and fortress against the lies and the fabrications of the false and disreputable world of modern day political policies. This is the new and highly contagious world of Mass Media and Mega Money - weapons of social destruction.

John Fitzgerald Kennedy had a great intellectual and emotional commitment to the cause of nuclear nonproliferation, and he expressed his personal sense of urgency regarding proliferation both in public and private. In February 1960, France had become the fourth member of the nuclear club, and the question Kennedy faced was who would be next. In one of his most memorable speeches, Kennedy described his nuclear nightmare:

"Personally I am haunted by the feeling that by 1970, unless we are successful, there may be ten nuclear powers instead of four, and by 1975, 15 to 20.... I see the possibility in the 1970s of the president of the United States having to face a world in which 15 or 25 nations may have these weapons. I regard this as the greatest possible danger and hazard."

His personal commitment is apparent in the way he dealt with the Israeli nuclear issue after he assumed office on January 20, 1961. Only ten days later, Secretary of State Dean Rusk gave the president a secret two-page memo on Israel's atomic activities, which noted the "categorical assurances" obtained from Ben-Gurion "that Israel does not have plans for developing atomic weaponry." As to U.S. interests in the Israeli case, the memo defined them as opposition to proliferation in general and a particular concern that, in response to Israeli weapons, the Soviets might station nuclear weapons on Arab soil.

WHY DID THEY KILL MY CHILDREN?

GAZA CITY—The Canada-bound Gaza doctor who recounted live on Israeli television how his three daughters and niece had just been killed by shelling demanded yesterday that Israel's defense minister explain their deaths. Ezzeldeen Abu al-Aisha, a 55-year-old gynecologist who had accepted a post at the University of Toronto, sobbed as he reported the deaths shortly after an Israeli shell struck his home in the northern town of Jabaliya on Friday. His account captivated viewers on Israel's Channel 10 TV. The well-known peace activist who was involved in promoting joint Israeli-Palestinian projects returned yesterday to inspect his destroyed Gaza home and to reunite with his five surviving children. His wife died recently of cancer. "I was well known to the Israelis even more than the Palestinians. They know me. Why did they kill my children?" he sobbed in an interview yesterday as he looked at pictures of his dead daughters amid the rubble in his home. He said he wanted to meet with Israeli Defense Minister Ehud Barak to hear first-hand why his children were killed. "I want him to have the courage, to have the concern to meet me to tell me why, without falsification,” he told Associated Press Television. “I’ll be proud that my children were the symbol of this war – that their blood wasn’t futile. That it awakened the concern of some, not they doubted. Two other daughters were wounded and were taken to Israeli hospitals for treatment. Israeli TV said initial reports indicated that a sniper had fired from either the family’s building which friends quoted in the report said they doubted, or nearby, and Israeli forces responded with a tank shell. The Israeli military is investigating the case

Abu al-Aish is an academic who specializes in studying the effects of war on Palestinian and Israeli children. He works at the Shifa Hospital in Gaza City. Gaza officials identified his slain daughters as 22-year-old Bisan, 15-year-old Mayer and 14-year-old Aya. His niece was identified as 14-year-old Nour Abu al-Aish. Two other daughters were wounded and were taken to Israeli hospitals for treatment. Israeli TV said initial reports indicated that a sniper had fired from either the family’s building – which friends quoted in the report

THE PALESTINIAN RIGHT OF RETURN

The 1967 Palestinian exodus refers to the flight of around 280,000 to 325,000 Palestinians out of the territories captured by Israel during and in the aftermath of the Six-Day War, including the demolition of the Palestinian villages of Maws, Yalo, and Bayt Nuba Surit, Beit Awwa, Beit Mirsem, Shuyukh, Al-Jiftlik, Agarith and Huseirat and the "emptying" of the refugee camps of Aqabat Jaber and Ein as-Sultan. Approximately 145,000 of the 1967 Palestinian refugees were refugees from the 1948 Palestine War. By December 1967, 245,000 had fled from the West Bank and Gaza Strip further into Jordan, 11,000 had fled from the Gaza Strip further into Egypt and 116,000 Palestinians and Syrians had fled from the Golan Heights further into Syria.

You came to our land with your army and your corrupted UN Documents to kill our people and take away our homes and our land. And after that you cry out: We only want peace with the people that had their homes destroyed and were forced to leave their homes and the future lives of their children, never to return to the country they remember as their home where they were born!

MEETING WITH PRESIDENT KENNEDY HELD IN NEW YORK CITY

April 17, 1961

In late March David Ben-Gurion decided to arrange a meeting with President Kennedy. After conquering scheduling problems--including the State Department's opposition to an official visit--the two leaders agreed to meet privately at New York's Waldorf Astoria Hotel. The meeting was set for May 30, at the end of an official David Ben-Gurion visit to Canada. Kennedy had wanted to portray his informal meeting with David Ben-Gurion as a "spontaneous idea." When plans for the meeting leaked out, it was characterized as an informal encounter made possible by "the coincidence of their presence in New York"- an explanation that was as far from the truth as one could get. The meeting was, after all, the real purpose behind Ben-Gurion's trip to North America. According to his biographer, the Israeli prime minister was "very tense" fearing that Kennedy's stiff position on the matter of the reactor would severely jeopardize the relationship. Hundreds of books and words have been written about this meeting and the events that transpired there. A November 22, 2008 late night talk show caller related the information that he was in that hotel room with Ben-Gurion and JFK, as a presidential aide, not related to the meeting at hand, when he heard harsh and bitter words being traded between Ben-Gurion and John F. Kennedy and heard Ben-Gurion tell the President that he would pursue their existing plans for the development of a nuclear weapon program with or without the approval of the United States.

The meeting came to an end when Kennedy said defiantly:

“The only way Israel will receive approval for their Nuclear Program from the USA is over my dead body. “

Mordechai Vanunu is an Israeli former nuclear technician and peace activist who, citing his opposition to weapons of mass destruction, revealed details of Israel's nuclear weapons program to the British press in 1986. He was subsequently lured to Italy by a Mossad agent, where he was drugged and abducted by Israeli intelligence agents. He was transported to Israel and ultimately convicted in a trial that was held behind closed doors. He was imprisoned for 18 years in 1986 for telling the world that Israel had secretly developed a large nuclear arsenal. Released in 2004 after having served his full sentence, he was put under on his freedom of movement, speech and association. In particular, he was refused the right to leave Israel as he wished and has wished for ever since. These restrictions have continued until now and his latest appeal against them was turned down by the Israeli High Court. A pacifist who has urged the Palestinians to pursue their aims by non-violent means, He was not a spy but was driven to his actions by a horror of Hiroshima and the possibility of a nuclear war in the Middle East.

Tel Aviv – The State of Israel would be “100 to 300 “nuclear warheads And Israel has a atomic bomb power similar to that of Britain. Tel Aviv is the sixth nation to acquire nuclear weapons in the 50s. The Experts at Jane’s Defense weekly, which deals with military information..They have published this vital information. The Israeli nuclear weapons have always been surrounded by the greatest secrecy. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu canceled a trip to Washington for fear of having to answer questions related to nuclear weapons possessed by Israel and because his state is one of the few who has not signed the Non- Proliferation Treaty. Israel is the only nuclear power in the Middle East

DEMOCRATIC SUPPORT FOR ISRAEL

Abraham Feinberg has been a "player" to use his words—who shared the early dreams of his good friend Ernst David Bergman of a nuclear-armed Israel. He served publicly as president of the Israel Bond Organization, while privately helping to raise some of the many millions of dollars needed to build the controversial reactor and reprocessing plant at Dimona. Feinberg accepted the fact that the expanding and expensive operations at Dimona had to be financed outside of the normal Israeli budget process; there were too many critics of the nuclear program inside and outside Israel to raise money any other way. The unwanted publicity at the end of the Eisenhower administration had only added to Ben-Gurion's and Shimon Perez's determination to protect the secret. Feinberg was more than just a fund-raiser in all this; he became an inside advocate for Ben-Gurion and Peres as President Kennedy, who brought in John McCone as director of central intelligence in September 1961, established himself as firmly opposed to the Israeli bomb. There was a particularly close association with Peres: "He came to me often for money. If he gave the assignment to me, I helped him."

Feinberg remains proud of his support for Israel and its secret weapons program. His most pitched battle on behalf of Israel came in the early days of the Kennedy administration when he successfully helped fight off the initial Kennedy insistence that an American inspection team be permitted full and unfettered access to Dimona. Feinberg's success was rooted in the American political process. "My path to power," he explains, "was cooperation in terms of what they needed—campaign money."

Among Feinberg's prize possessions is a seven-page handwritten letter of thanks and praise from Truman. Feinberg estimates that he and his Jewish colleagues rose "in the neighborhood of $400,000" during the 1948 whistle-stop campaign. Truman understood the rules and at some later point discussed naming Feinberg ambassador to Israel. Feinberg declined: "I told him no Jew should be ambassador to Israel until the Peace is solved.

. A few weeks after Kennedy's nomination by the Democrats, however, Feinberg was contacted by Governor Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, who had been Kennedy's floor manager during the Democratic convention. "I was the only Jew for him," Ribicoff recalled. "And I realized that Jews were for anybody but Jack Kennedy. I told Kennedy I was going to get in touch with Abe Feinberg, who I thought was a key Jew. I arranged a meeting [with Kennedy] in Feinberg's apartment in the Hotel Pierre and we invited all the leading Jews." About twenty prominent businessmen and financiers showed up.

"They wanted control"

Kennedy was anything but grateful the next morning in describing the session to Charles L. Bartlett, a newspaper columnist and close friend. He had driven to Bartlett's home in northwest Washington and dragged his friend on a walk, where he recounted a much different version of the meeting the night before. "As an American citizen he was outraged," Bartlett recalled, "to have a Zionist group come to him and say: 'We know your campaign is in trouble. We're willing to pay your bills if you'll let us have control of your Middle East policy.'" Kennedy, as a presidential candidate, also resented the crudity with which he'd been approached. "They wanted control," he angrily told Bartlett

A Jew is one who remains faithful to the laws of the Jewish religion, that is, the Holy Torah and its commandments. The Jewish people became a people before they had their own land, and continued to exist as a people also after they went into exile, because their very people hood is based exclusively on the Torah. The Holy Land was given to the Jewish people on the condition that they observe the Torah and its commandments. When they failed to do this, their sovereignty over the land was taken from them, and they went into exile. From that time, they are prohibited by the Torah with a very grave prohibition to establish a Jewish independent sovereignty in the Holy Land or anywhere throughout the world. Rather, they are obligated to be loyal to the nations under whose protection they dwell.

Religious Jews of the world may have unwillingly and unwittingly created for themselves and for future generations of their children another unthinkable holocaust, simply by following the Zionist promises of the establishment of a sanctuary of safety and peace and a geographical national homeland for Jews. This idyllic world was promised by renowned and obscure Zionists of the world, who are joined in this enterprise, by international Zionists who are neither Jews nor Jewish in culture or religion.

Their political and economic goals and ambitions reach much further than creating a National Homeland for the Jews. of the world

State of the Union Address, January 11, 1962

"I speak of peace because of the new face of war. Total war makes no sense in an age when great powers can maintain large and relatively invulnerable nuclear forces and refuse to surrender without resort to those forces. It makes no sense in an age when a single nuclear weapon contains almost ten times the explosive force delivered by all the allied air forces in the Second World War. It makes no sense in an age when the deadly poisons produced by a nuclear exchange would be carried by wind and water and soil and seed to the far corners of the globe and to generations yet unborn."

The Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons, commonly known as the Non-Proliferation Treaty or NPT, is an international treaty whose objective is to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons and weapons technology, to promote cooperation in the peaceful uses of nuclear energy, and to further the goal of achieving nuclear disarmament and general and complete disarmament.<sup>[1]</sup>

Opened for signature in 1968, the Treaty entered into force in 1970. On 11 May 1995, the Treaty was extended indefinitely. More countries have adhered to the NPT than any other arms limitation and disarmament agreement, a testament to the Treaty's significance. A total of 191 states have joined the Treaty, though North Korea, which acceded to the NPT in 1985 but never came into compliance, announced its withdrawal in 2003. Four UN member states have never joined the NPT: India, Israel, Pakistan and South Sudan

THE PALESTINIAN RIGHT OF RETURN

The roots of the Palestinian problem go back to the Second World War. Under the pretext of protecting some of the survivors of that War, the land of Palestine was occupied through, aggression and the displacement of millions of its inhabitants; it was placed under the control of some of the war survivors, bringing even larger population groups from elsewhere in the world, who had not been even affected by the Second World War; and a government was established in the territory of others with a population collected from across the world at the expense of driving millions of the rightful inhabitants of the land into a Diaspora of homelessness. This is a great tragedy with hardly a precedent in history. Refugees continue to live in temporary refugee camps, and many have died still hoping to one day return to their land. Can any logic, law or legal reasoning justify this tragedy? Can any member of the United Nations accept such a tragedy occurring in their own homeland? The pretexts for the creation of the regime occupying Al-Qods Al-Sharif are so weak that its proponents want to silence any voice trying to merely speak about them, as they are concerned that shedding light on the facts would undermine the raison d'être of this regime, as it has. The tragedy does not the establishment of a regime in the territory of others. Regrettably, from its inception, that regime has been a constant source of threat and insecurity in the Middle East region, waging war and spilling blood and impeding the progress of regional countries, and has also been used by some powers as an instrument of division,

Palestine refugee camps were established after the 1948 Arab–Israeli War during the 1948 Palestinian exodus. United Nations General Assembly (UNGGA) Resolution 194 grants Palestinians the right to return to their homeland if they wish to "live at peace with their neighbors". The United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) defines a Palestine refugee as:"persons whose normal place of residence was Palestine during the period 1 June 6 1948 to 15 May 1948, and who lost both home and means of livelihood as a result of the 1948 conflict to accommodate the Palestine refugees who fled or were expelled

Language—Arabic Religion—Sunni Muslim

The Syrian Arab Republic is a country in Western Asia, bordering Lebanon and the Mediterranean Sea to the west, Turkey to the north, Iraq to the east, Jordan to the south and Israel to the southwest. A country of fertile plains, high mountains and deserts, it is home to diverse ethnic and religious groups, including Arab Alawites, Arab Sunnis, Arab Christians, Armenians, Assyrians, Druze, Kurds and Turks. Arab Sunnis make up the majority of the population. Golan Heights As a region, the Golan Heights is the area captured from Syria and occupied by Israel during the Six-Day War Geopolitical which Israel effectively annexed in 1981. This region includes the western two thirds of the geological Golan Heights, as well as the Israeli-occupied part of Mount Harmon.
