

WILL CANADA EVER BECOME A SOVEREIGN NATION UNTO ITSELF ?

Vancouver 2010 Winter Olympic Games

A PROUD NATION IN A TRIUMPHANT CELEBRATION

After 17 remarkable days, Canada rediscovers itself as a proud, resilient nation. With a record number of gold medals, including the gold medal for our Olympic Hockey team, we are now a nation of people in celebration that is has been seen and applauded by citizens around around the world by our hosting the 2010 Winter Olympic Games in Vancouver, British Columbia.

Now that the Games have ended, our guests have returned home, the arenas are quiet, the demolitions begin and only the debts remain.

Behind the brilliant events of the Opening Ceremonial, the excitement of the games, the joys of our hosting and celebrating these games lies another Canada, one that haunted us for the past one hundred and forty three years.

DO WE CANADIANS LIVE IN A NATION, A COUNTRY OR A COLONY

On Saturday, July 2, Sir William, Prince of Cambridge in a Canada Day speech on Parliament Hill began with this revealing statement:

“To be here on Canada Day, a day of unity, a day of coming together as families and as a nation, is even more special for us. To mark today, my grandmother, the Queen of Canada, has asked me to convey her warmest good wishes to the people of Canada and her happy and abiding memories of being on Parliament Hill with the Duke of Edinburgh one year ago. The Queen has taken a great interest in the themes and program of our tour and looks forward to following our progress as it unfolds.

The Queen is only a Figure-Head

It is no longer a secret: Most Canadians believe heart and soul, that Queen Elizabeth II is merely a “figure-head” a “symbol “and are unwilling to accept the absolute truth of the matter that she, the Queen of Canada, is the Royal Proprietress of Canada and her Grandson, Prince William, in his turn, will be the hereditary Royal Proprietary possessor of Canada. They both will reign as Royal Sovereigns as our Head of State and as the Commander in Chief of Canada's Military in periods of War and Peace.

The Queen is Head of State of the UK and 15 other Commonwealth realms.

WHAT IS A NATION

A nation, is a tightly-knit group of people which share a common culture. A State is a self-governing political entity. The term State can be used interchangeably with country.

A nation, however, is a tightly-knit group of people which share a common culture. A nation-state is a nation which has the same borders as a State.

Independent Countries

An independent State:

What defines a State or an independent country.

- ◆Has space or territory which has internationally recognized boundaries
 - ◆Has people who live there on an ongoing basis.
 - ◆Has economic activity and an organized economy.
- A country regulates foreign and domestic trade and issues money.
- ◆Has the power of social engineering, such as education.
 - ◆Has a transportation system for moving goods and people.
 - ◆Has a government which provides public services and police power.
 - ◆Has sovereignty. No other State should have power over the country's territory.
 - ◆Has external recognition

Nations are culturally homogeneous groups of people, larger than a single tribe or community, which share a common language, institutions, religion, and historical experience. When a nation of people have a State or country of their own, it is called a nation-state. Places like France, Egypt, Germany, and Japan are excellent examples of nation-states.

A COUNTRY IS THE TERRITORY OCCUPIED BY A NATION

A COLONY IS A COUNTRY OWNED AND CONTROLLED
BY ANOTHER SOVEREIGNTY

CANADA IS A CONSTITUTIONAL MONARCHY.

CANADA'S GOVERNOR GENERAL AND ROLE of the Governor General

A Governor in all but name, Samuel de Champlain fulfilled 400 years ago several duties and responsibilities that would later be carried out by the Governors of New France and after Confederation, by the Governors General of Canada.

Canada became a country at Confederation in 1867. Our system of government is a constitutional monarchy and a parliamentary democracy. Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II is Queen of Canada and Head of State. The Governor General is the representative of the Queen in Canada.

The responsibilities of the governor general have evolved over time, along with the evolution of Canada as a sovereign and independent nation. In 1947, letters patent signed by King George VI redefine the powers of the governor general. These letters patent “authorize and empower Our Governor General, with the advice of Our Privy Council for Canada or any members thereof or individually, as the case requires, to exercise all powers and authorities lawfully belonging to us in respect of Canada”. Since then, the governor general has daily and fully exercised the duties of the Head of State, not only in Canada, but also abroad.

As per the letters patent, the governor general is also the commander-in-chief of Canada.

The governor general represents Canada during State visits abroad and receives Royal visitors, heads of State and foreign ambassadors at Rideau Hall and at the Citadelle of Québec.

The governor general presents honours and awards to recognize excellence, valour, bravery and exceptional achievements. The governor general is also the head of the Canadian Heraldic Authority.

Canada, the world’s second largest land based country in the world remains, after one hundred and thirty-five years of national development, a country whose land forms are ninety percent virgin forest covered lands, mountains, interior plains and innumerable bodies of fresh water. Invaluable natural resources abound in the land, both exposed to the eye and hidden in the ground. Seasonal recreational facilities and leisure nature sanctuaries have been developed some have achieved worldwide approval and success.

Without having the United States as a neighbor, Canada would face a nebulous future of remaining a quasi British Colony and a member of the British Commonwealth. Canada is separated from the United States only by a loose network of rivers, lakes, and chalk lines marking out their mutual national borders. If the day ever comes that the Homeland Security Department of the United States decides that these Canadian Borders are too numerous, too porous, and far too expensive to secure and maintain and are an impediment to the American Economy, that will be a sad day for Canada, indeed.

One can imagine what a new Super Nation the United States of America would be if it added Canada's three million, eight hundred and forty-nine thousand plus square miles (3,849,674 square miles) of territory and thirty million (30,000,000) people to its present size.

American governments can imagine it and assuredly are ever mindful of this potential and its advantage for the future growth and needs of the American people. Canada lies between Alaska and the lower Forty-Eight States of America. An unbroken American Republic could one day stretch from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic Circle. For now there is no pressing need or political urgency to act sooner rather than later. In the meantime an inextricable web of inclusive relationship and a complex tangle of seemingly mutually beneficial trade pacts and agreements support the ever growing establishment of American corporate presence in the national and provincial affairs of Canada. Millions of people and billions in dollars of commerce cross these borders daily. It gives daily commuters a sense of being in one country
